A SENSATION IS NOW PROMISED

Lively Testimony In Case of State Revenue Agents.

BOTH SIDES SEEM PREPARED

While Those Behind the Legislative Inquiry Declare They Will Be Able to Reveal Amazing Conditions, the Revenue Agents and Their Friends Say They Have Done Nothing to Cause Them to Shrink.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 16.—Investigation of the state revenue agents, which was begun Monday, promises to bring out some of the liveliest testimony that has been heard in Frankfort for a long time. Those behind the investigation claim that they have some sensational testimony, which will disclose amazing conditions. The revenue agents and their friends say that they are not afraid of the investigation as they have done nothing of which they are ashamed. They also say that they have lively and sensational testimony that they will offer to offset the testimony that may be introduced against them.

The revenue agents say that the investigation will not be one-sided by any means, and that they propose to show a motive for the investigation. There promise to be several angles to the investigation and before it is finished it will involve many men and many measures. The present auditor does not want the office of auditor's agents abolished, although he is willing to have modifications in the existing law made. He does not want to give up the power to collect delinquent taxes by means of his agents and says that the agents are necessary, to a certain extent.

Be this as it may, the fight against the present system of auditor's agents is to be one to the death, and every effort is to be made to have the offices abolished, the middle ground not being considered. In the fight against the auditor's agents, the Louisville Times is taking a big part and has been leading with editorials attacking the system.

A bill will be followed in the senate this week that may solve the problem of how to elect prison commissioners. The bill proposes to have four commissioners, two to be elected at the present session of the legislature, by the legislature and two every two years thereafter, the law expressly stating that no commissioner shall be eligible to succeed himself. It is stated by the author of the bill, that this would give Finley Fogg, who is a candidate for commissioner, a chance to be elected at the present session, as he expected, and will give the other commissioners the remainder of their term, or two years more on the commission. It may be that both sides will accept this solution.

"The Best Town On The Henderson Route."

The city of Irvington has just gotten from the press of the Breckenridge News some very attractive stationery. It is printed in two colors and shows the names of the officers and all the committees. Besides it gives a list of what Irvington has and what Irvington wants. "The best town on the Henderson Route" is the little city's slogan and the stationery is an index to the live character of the town.

Mrs. Dean Ill.

Mrs. John Dean was critically ill of pneumonia at her home in the West End last week. She is little improved.

Appointment Of Col. W. B. Haldeman As Adjutant General.

The appointment by Governor McCreary of Col. W. B. Haldeman, editor of the Louisville Times, as Adjutant General of Kentucky, has met with great favor all over the State. Telegrams and letters of congratulations by the hundreds were sent him by prominent men and friends, but it seems to The Jeffersonian that the State, rather than Gen. Haldeman, should be congratulated.

The military service of the State, in charge of Gen. Haldeman, will now be placed upon a higher plane than ever before. He is experienced in such matters and knows how to rally the "boys" around him. He was in Frankfort Tuesday and took charge of the Adjutant General's office.

The Jeffersonian begs to join in the congratulations of Gen. Haldeman, the State Guard and Gov. McCreary for his wisdom in selecting such a high-toned and capable gentleman as the head of military affairs in Kentucky.—The Jeffersonian.

Still A Home Boy.

Dear Miss Louise:—You will find enclosed twenty-five cents, for which please send me the News three months. I am lost with out the home paper. I am now in the office of the American Tobacco Co. as an office boy. I am learning the type writing system and like my work fine. I am well and satisfied, but love my home, Kentucky. Love to every body and success to you and the News. I am as ever, Yewell T. Holder, 5377 Cote Brilliant Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Statement of St. Rose.

The financial statement of St. Rose church, of this city, for the year ending December 31, 1911, has been issued in an attractive booklet from the Breckenridge News press. The receipts and expenses, what each family pays to the support of the pastor and church and other collections are given in full. Over twelve hundred dollars was paid into the treasury of the church and St. Rose enjoyed a good and profitable year during 1911.

BURLEY SOCIETY IS VICTOR IN SUIT.

No Damages Allowed—Only Two Hours to Reach Decision. LeBus And Ferguson Thank Members After Verdict Is Returned.

NO DAMAGES ALLOWED.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 12.—"We, the jury, find for the defendant," was the verdict rendered in the suit of the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Company against the Burley Tobacco Society at 8 o'clock tonight. President LeBus and Vice President Ferguson shook hands with and thanked each member of the jury.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 12.—Despite the opinion of Judge Howard C. Hollister of the United States District Court in this city, that the contracts made by the Burley Tobacco Society of Kentucky with the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Company, of Covington, Kentucky, were in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, a jury in the case tonight rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant, the Burley Tobacco Society, and refused damages for which the plaintiff, the E. O. Eshelby Company, was suing in the sum of $196,000.

The action was brought as the result of the purchase of tobacco at Winchester, Kentucky, in 1907, by the Eshelby Tobacco Company, for which the price of 17 cents a pound was paid and which price the plaintiff declared, in its petition, was in excess of what it should have been, because of the fact that the Burley Tobacco Society controlled the Burley tobacco crop of that year.

The case has been in progress for nearly two weeks and was given to the jury this evening. The jury deliberated for two hours. The entire day was taken up with arguments by the attorneys for both sides.

Mr. Randall Ill.

Chas. Randall, foreman of the machine shop of the Henderson Route Shop here, continues ill at the Cloverport Hotel.

Mrs. Steve Flowers Dead.

Mrs. Fannie Flowers, wife of Mr. Stephen Flowers, who lives near Patesville, died on Tuesday of blood poison, following childbirth. She leaves her husband and one child, Oliver Flowers, eleven years old. Mrs. Flowers was 46 years of age, and was greatly admired by a large circle of warm friends. She was a member of the Patesville Baptist church, and the remains were interred at the Bethlehem cemetery on Thursday, Rev. Ira L. Rice, her pastor, officiating. Clarion.

Wade Pile For Wilson.

Dear Mr. Babbage: I saw in the News today where you wanted the Democrats to write whom they want for President. I am for Woodrow Wilson because I think he is the best man and think that he can be elected.

Wade W. Mook, Ky.

Miss Georgia White Ill.

After more than a week's illness at her home in this city, Miss Georgia White is convalescing. Her family and friends were quite apprehensive of her condition.

Kentucky Tobacco Crop.

According to the December issue of the Government crop report Kentucky's tobacco crop for 1911 is valued at $31,000,000.

The average price of Kentucky tobacco December 1st was $0.79; the average yield per acre was 856 pounds; the total acreage was 439,000 and the total production was 390,800,000 pounds.

Hard Times For The Birds.

A dispatch from Evansville says the Indiana farmers are feeding the quail and other birds on their farms. It would be well if Kentucky farmers would do the same thing.

Conditions in Kentucky at present are anything but ideal for the birds. Over a great portion of the State the snow is coated with sleet, while trees and weeds are covered with ice. The birds are unable to penetrate this icy coat of mail with beak or claw and their

ROBBERY AT IRVINGTON

Shellman's Bank, Alexander's Store, Trent's Store And Post-Office Visited By Thieve's Thursday Night. Unsuccessful Visit.

What proved lots of work with little result was the visit paid to Irvington's main business houses Thursday night. Three tramps had been staying around town all week and they are thought to be the persons who entered the post-office, the stores of Haynes Trent and Ed. Alexander. All the stamps and money were taken out of the post-office, but the amount did not exceed more than $20.

Alexander's store was robbed of $3 and a few trifles in jewelry and the wedding ring of Mrs. Alexander. Trent's store suffered a lesser loss. An unsuccessful attempt was made to break open the safe in the bank of E. H. Shellman & Company. The thieves must have skipped town on the first train out and as yet have not been heard from.

"Blue Diamond" Brings His Master $750 In Prizes.

The Hon. D. C. Moorman, Glen Dean, Ky. Dear Sir:—I am sending you, under separate cover, a copy of the American Field, giving the winnings of field trial dogs, in 1911. Among the successful Derby winners you will find "Blue Diamond", your humble servant owned and trained last Fall. During the summer I sold him for a good price. To date, he has brought his present master $750 in prizes.

Wishing you a Happy New Year, I am,
Yours sincerely,
J. S. Henry,
Stithon, Ky. Dec. 29, 1911.

The College Life Of Our Times.

From Clayton Sedgwick Cooper's "The American Undergraduate" in January Century.

Not only upon the shields of our American universities do we find "veritas"; in spirit at least it is also clearly written across the face of the entire college life of our times. Gentleness, open-mindedness, originality, honor, patriotism, truth—these are increasingly found in both the serious pursuits and the play life of our American undergraduates. The department in which these ideals are sought is not so important as the certainty that the student is forming such ideals of thoroughness and perfection.

FARMING WITH DYNAMITE; WHAT IT CAN DO FOR BRECKENRIDGE

You are a farmer. You fully appreciate the value of labor-saving devices. Your farm, large or small, deserves modern machinery and mechanical appliances to reduce the cost of production or to improve farm products. The purpose of these illustrations and notes are to show you the wonderful value of the use of "Red Cross" Dynamite on your farm and to show you how easily and safely it can be made the greatest aid and profit to you.

Fear Of Dynamite

When you were a little boy weren't you afraid of the first fire cracker you shot on the Fourth of July? But now the fear has left you because you know how to handle a fire cracker. It is the same way with Dynamite. It is a powerful explosive, but it is not dangerous to handle when you follow the simple directions with ordinary care and you can use it without fear and without harm.

Breaking Up Hard-Pan.

You know what Hard-Pan is—it is a layer of earth right under the top soil and is as hard as rock. When hard-pan has formed under the top soil, only sun flowers and cockleburrs can grow on such land because it holds the surface water in such quantities on the level ground that the vegetation rots away, and on hilly ground, it allows the surface water to run off, thus preventing the storage of moisture, with the result that the vegetation dies quickly in hot weather. Such land can be rendered fertile at once by blasting with Dynamite.

Under the hard-pan is the subsoil which is completely broken up and the dry, dead top soil converted into a rich loam for less than the amount of the taxes for a year or two. You can imagine what a joy it must be to a grain of corn to get down into this subsoil and stretch out—just like yourself getting into a feather bed and stretching out and being comfortable for eight hours—which is long enough for any energetic farmer that wants to grow and gain.

But going back to the corn, J. H. Caldwell, of Spartanburg, S. C., planted his crop with stalks 18 inches apart in rows 4 feet apart and raised 90 bushels to the acre. After he plowed his ground with Dynamite, it was able to nourish stalks 6 inches apart in rows the same distance apart and to produce 250 bushels to the acre. Think of raising that much corn on an acre in Breckenridge county. Wouldn't that delight Mr. Harrington, of Custer, and Bro. Duggins, of Harned? They have been plowing their ground deep and planted their corn and got fine results. If they take hold of Dynamite, they can see greater and richer yields.

Planting And Cultivating Orchards

If Mr. Ashby would use "Red Cross" Dynamite in his nursery he would save much labor and time in planting trees, and be ensured the best growth and large yields. This is not dictating to Mr. W. S. A., but because trees just will grow for him, his name is mentioned.

Mr. Ashby will spend (or have some one spend) an hour digging a tree hole that "Red Cross" Dynamite will excavate in an instant. And the Dynamite loosens the ground, breaks through that prison wall—the hard-pan—and makes a path to the subsoil for the roots to grow into and have a good time. Trees planted without blasting often bear no fruit and their leaves shrivel up and drop off during the dry season, because their roots are not surrounded by a spongy reservoir that is always formed by Dynamite.

To be continued next week.

NO REASON FOR IT

You Are Shown The Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ills when relief is possible and proof given that these ills can be cured. The following is convincing proof.

Mrs. R. D. Taylor, 1523 Clay St., Henderson, Ky., says: "A constant pain across my kidneys, accompanied by headaches, robbed me of all energy and a feeling of languor resulted. Added to this, was difficulty with the kidney secretions, which caused me much annoyance. My back was so weak that I could not lift, and my ordinary housework was almost beyond my strength. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and I never before took a medicine that did me so much good. I am indeed grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills and do not hesitate to recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Enjoying Visit Back to Kentucky and Thinks Much of The Breckenridge News

Editor Breckenridge News, Kind Sir: I have been visiting friends here for several days and reading Ohio county papers. They are nothing compared with your paper which I read during my visit at Harned. We should all be interested in our home press, and to have a good paper we must help our editor to gather the news from all over the county, keep him busy, read his paper and furnish plenty to build up the subscription and enlarge our paper.

Well, my visit has been a fine old time. Since my nine year's absence from Kentucky things have changed wonderfully, great improvements have been made. The church-yard has numbered many of my friends.

People are very late gathering in their corn, as one farmer has let over two hundred shocks get over-flowed on Rough Creek. Xmas would have been a fine time for the young sports, but the rabbits took a throat trouble and we could not eat them, as the doctors said it was contagious to the people. I guess the game sports from the cities stand in with the doctors for I am sure they will never pronounce the tobacco worm with consumption to keep the boys from catching them.

Falls of Rough had several growls Xmas, but no rights at all, times was flourishing as most of the farmers had delivered their tobacco. Many cases of fever have developed in the last few weeks mostly among children of this locality. Yours truly, M. D. D.

Constipation is the cause of many ailments and disorders that make life miserable. Take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, keep your bowels regular and you will avoid these diseases. For sale by all dealers.

ANOTHER AMBITION FOR OUR COUNTY.

Through the courtesy of E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Powder Company, of Wilmington, Delaware, we are reproducing cuts showing the value of dynamite on the farm with a few hints of the chief uses of this powerful assistant. We are intensely interested in seeing an increase of bushels of corn to every acre in our county and to see our old worn out farms regenerated. We are anxious for the use of dynamite to be introduced in Breckenridge county for it has been proved by actual results that it means more and better crops, bigger shipments and greater prosperity. To acquaint our farmers with the advantages of dynamite, we will give a brief and intelligent article with illustrations every week for a month or more in the columns of the Breckenridge News. For further details about the uses of explosives for farmers and planters, write to the Du Pont Powder Company and a hand-book giving full instructions will be mailed to you with great pleasure.

How thankful we are for good, warm fires and health this Zero weather. After all, such a drop of temperature isn't so bad—it breaks the monotony of the petty round of everyday duties and concerns. It gives us something to complain of and a pretty good reason for not wanting to get up early every morning. And too, you can wear most any kind of old tags—just so you keep warm, no matter how you look? In fact, it's a rest from trying to keep up appearances. It's a rest from cooking—just cook enough to satisfy hunger; it must be a rest in some ways on the farms. We are certain it's a change for the merchants and the town post-master.

WHAT THE CHURCHES ARE DOING.

An excellent plan for any church is that of issuing an annual statement of the finances at the end of each year. Father Brey has just printed in booklet form the financial statement of St. Rose church of this city. There are few institutions that do not publish annually statements of their financial conditions. All the churches should fall in line and be as progressive—for their work is the work of the world and they should take hold of the most aggressive methods.

tion of the problem; at any rate the members of the legislature will be given a chance to vote for or against it.

Frank Kavanaugh, State Librarian, made his first real speech when he was nominated by the Democrats of the house and senate in joint caucus Thursday night. Mr. Kavanaugh, who has been librarian for four years and assistant librarian since the time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, is the most modest and diffident young man in the state, and he surprised everybody by making a speech after his nomination. It was not as though he was caught napping and was given an unexpected nomination. He has had ample time for preparation. He has been working for votes ever since the last caucus which nominated him, four years since, and he had them all corralled; that is all but six out of the 108, and the six really were for him. He was not content with a majority of the Democratic members of the two houses, but went after them all. He was nominated by acclamation, his opponent failing to get anybody to make the nomination against Mr. Kavanaugh.

No effort was made by the prison commission to have a nomination for prison commissioners made at the joint caucus and it is likely that those opposed to the governor appointing the commissioners will lay low and say nothing until the bill comes up in either the house or the senate. It was reported that Eli Brown and his friends would try to have the joint Democratic caucus nominate Finley Fogg for prison commissioner, he being a candidate and this being the term at which an election for that office is scheduled to be held.

But the prison commission seems to have given up the fight. They say they have not quit the contest and have merely adopted another plan of action. It is believed that a change in the method of electing the commissioners is certain, and there will not be any effort to prevent some change. Harvey McCutchen, a member of the commission, gave out a statement which indicated to many that he had quit the fight and would accept whatever was done. Mr. McCutchen says he has not quit, that he is standing by his guns and that he meant only what he said in his card. In that card he said he favored the election of the prison commissioners by the people, declaring that this was the method favored by the Democratic platform, which urged that the people be given a chance to say what they wanted.

In the makeup of the committee to which will be referred railroad bills, the railroads operating in Kentucky were given a black eye, as the men who compose the house and senate committees are known to be antagonistic to the railroad, or certainly not favorable to them. Time was when the railroad had committees favorable to them. In one session of the legislature, that of 1908, not a meeting of the railroad committee in either house ever was held during the entire session, and not a single railroad bill was reported.

But it is to be different this year. In the house of the chairman of the railroad committee is Representative Williams, who was a conductor on the C. & O. railroad and one of the leading members of the trainmen's union. He comes to the legislature pledged to try to establish certain reforms in railroad laws, and will try to have enacted a new employers' liability law which will help those injured in railroad accidents.

Lieut. Gov. McDermott, presiding officer of the senate, sprang a new one on the senate last week that has caused more talk than anything that has happened during the present session. He proposed to have the senate adopt a rule providing for the formal and ceremonious entrance of the presiding officer and his staff, the working force of the senate. He suggested that every morning the employees of the senate gather in the private office of the lieutenant governor, and at the hour appointed to call the senate to order, the procession start for the senate chamber. The sergeant at arms was to lead the way, followed by the presiding officer of the senate and with the clerk and assistant clerks following. The sergeant at arms was to announce to the senate:

"The lieutenant governor of Kentucky, the presiding officer of the senate, is about to enter with his retinue."

The senators then were to stand with heads bowed while the lieutenant governor entered and took his seat. This plan did not meet with the approval of those senators to whom it was mentioned, and the proposed resolution was not offered in the senate. Gov. McDermott was serious in making the suggestion, but did not mean to convey that he thought he was better than the members of the senate. He merely wanted all the decorum necessary carried out in the senate.

The senate was all stirred up by reason of adoption of a rule to exclude lobbyists from the floor of the senate. The rule was so drastic that everybody was excluded. The way it applied was shown by a conversation which was had between a senator and Finley Fogg, a member of the prison commission. The senator complained that more ministers had not attended the senate session to open the proceedings with prayer. Mr. Fogg said:

"The reason they don't attend, is because your old rules are so strict they can not get in."

When two of the state officials were refused admission to the senate floor and the clerk of the house also was denied admission, there was a storm of protest and the senators went to work to amend the stringent rule. Dr. C. F. Creel, the Secretary of State, was denied admission when he went to the senate with commissions of notaries public, to have the appointments confirmed by the senate. The rule excluding lobbyists from the floor of the senate still prevails but the rule has been so modified as to permit state officials and former members of the legislature to enter.

The adoption of the rules in the house was marked by the first clash of the administration and anti-administration forces, an outcropping of the race for the speakership. In this fight the speaker was defeated by the man who was his opponent. The followers of Harry Schoberth, of Woodford county, united with the Republicans to beat the rule in the house requiring two-thirds of those present voting in favor of a change to amend the rules or suspend the order of business. Mr. Schoberth opposed the two-thirds rule wanting it left so that a majority could change the order as between the men classed as strictly administration and those known as insurgents.

Kentucky is to have a new mansion for the governor if a bill offered by Representative Hamilton, of Frankfort county, is passed. The bill, one of the first introduced, appropriates $75,000 for the erection of a mansion and specifies that the mansion shall be located on the ground adjoining the capitol.

CUSTER

J. A. Cook returned from Louisville yesterday.

D. C. Herndon, of Irvington, was in town Thursday night and Friday.

Rabbit weather now, ferrets have advanced in price.

Pretty cold, but tobacco still comes. Mr. Horsesley delivered to Cook and Johnson about 3500 lbs. Friday.

On account of the heavy snow we had no mail Friday, the Branch train being snow bound.

Mr. Wilson, of Irvington, was in town Thursday buying cattle.

Dr. D. B. Beeler will be in town the 18th and 19th.

Courtland Trent and Thomas Gilpin went to Kingswood Thursday to hear "Bud" Robinson.

Owen Gilpin passed through town this week enroute to his home in Kingswood.

Miss Lillian Carmon entered school here Tuesday. Our school is growing and bids fair to do some splendid work.

While handling some stock at his barn last Wednesday, Mr. Loeb Trent got his arm caught between a horse and the wall and sustained a very bad fracture of the forearm.

Rev. J. E. King filled his fifth Sunday appointment here Sunday.

Miss Tessie Hoskinson is very little improved in health at this writing.

Miss Roxie Clark is no better.

Mr. Gabe Bruner has been offered a lucrative position in Louisville with an undertaking establishment. No doubt Mr. Bruner will make a good man at the business. If the proposition develops as is now expected, he will be associated with one of his friends from Breckenridge county.

Adverse circumstances always bring out true merit. This is certainly trying weather, but it has not thrown any damper on the school, or school spirit here. Our school is progressing nicely, gaining in membership and interest. If the school can hold enthusiasm such weather as this, and the first week too, we have no fear as to the outcome. The student body seem to have decided that "It is better to drink deep or touch not at all," and they are striving to get all there is for them. Mr. Walls says he has a lively body of workers, and all they need is the opportunity.

THE ONLY SAFE PLACE IS IN THE BANK

Didn't Trust Banks

H. W. Hazelton, an aged recluse, living at Los Angeles, who did not believe in banks or safe deposit boxes, was robbed night before last of $150,000 in money, certificates and bonds, which he kept in a dresser drawer. There is little sympathy with people who are so fearful of national or state institutions, with depositors, who tempt thieves to enter their homes with hidden wealth.

Adepts, who make a business of burgling, who have made a study of crime, learn sooner or later in some way, of people who are suspected of keeping considerable sums of money or valuables, about their home or on their person, and this often leads not only to robbery, but murder. It is a dangerous thing, with so many unconscionable scoundrels at large, who plot and live on their fellows by either wavering their victim or entering their homes, to carry much money or keep it in the home. The bank is the best place. The bank is the only safe and secure place, but there is every convenience for deposit as well as easily and quickly drawing the same when desirable. Hazelton is lucky he escaped with his life, even if he does not recover his valuables.—Atlantic City, N. J., Union.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"THERE NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. MARGARET MEREDITH, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CHAPTER XVI.

"PLEASE DON'T BE ANGRY WITH ME."
AFTER Dr. Welshmere and the Apostle departed and Captain Oleson had turned in for a sleep in a veranda hammock Sheldon opened Joan's letter:

Dear Mr. Sheldon—Please forgive me for stealing the Flibberty Gibbet. I simply had to. The Martha means everything to me. Think of it, only $20 for her, $25. If I don't save her, I know I shall be able to pay all expenses out of her gear which the natives will not have carried off. And if I do save her it is the nail of life-time. And if I don't save her I'll live the Emily and the Flibberty Gibbet with recruits. Recruits are needed right now on Berande more than anything else.

And please, please don't be angry with me. You said I shouldn't go recruiting on the Flibberty, and I won't. I'll go on the Emily.

I bought two cows this afternoon. That trader at Nogi died of fever, and I bought them from his partner—Sam Willis his name—who agrees to deliver them, most likely by the Minerva next time she is down that way. Berande has been long enough on unimpaired milk.

And Dr. Welshmere has agreed to get me some orange and lime trees from the mission station at Clava. He will deliver them the next trip of the Apostle. If the Sydney steamer arrives before I get back plant the sweet corn she will bring between the young trees on the high bank of the Balesuna. The current is eating in against that bank, and you should do something to save it.

I have ordered some fig trees and loquats, too, from Sydney. Dr. Welshmere will bring some mango seeds. They are big trees and require plenty of room. The Martha is registered 110 tons. She is the biggest schooner in the Solomons and the best. I saw a little of her lines and guess the rest. She will sail like a witch. If she isn't filled with water her engine won't be all right. The reason she went ashore was because it was not working. The engineer had disconnected the feed pipes to clean out the rust. Poor business unless at anchor or with plenty of sea room.

Plant all the trees in the compound even if you have to clean out the palms later on. And don't plant the sweet corn all at once. Let a few days elapse between plantings.

He fingered the letter, lingering over it and scrutinizing the writing in a way that was not his wont. How characteristic, was his thought, as he studied the boyish scrawl—clear to read, painfully clear, but none the less boyish.

He looked long at the name, Joan Lackland—just an assemblage of letters, of commonplace letters, but an assemblage that generated a subtle heady magic. It crept into his brain and twined and twisted his mental processes until all that constituted him at that moment went into love to that scrawled signature. Joan Lackland! Each time he looked at it there arose visions of her in a myriad moods and guises, coming in out of the flying smother of the gale that had wrecked her schooner, launching a whaleboat to go a-fishing, running dripping from the sea with streaming hair and clinging garments to the fresh water shower, frightening fourscore cannibals with an empty chlorodyne bottle, juvenily rattling on about romance and venture, bright eyed, her face flushed and eager with enthusiasm Joan Lackland! He mused over the cryptic wonder of it till the secrets of love were made clear and he felt a keen sympathy for lovers who carved their names on trees or wrote them on the beach sands of the sea.

Then he came back to reality, and his face hardened. Even then she was on the wild coast of Malaita and at Poonga Poonga, of all villainous and dangerous portions the worst, peopled with a teeming population of head hunters, robbers and murderers. For the instant he entertained the rash thought of calling his boat's crew and starting immediately in a whaleboat for Poonga Poonga. But the next instant the idea was dismissed. What could he do if he did go? First she would resent it. Next she would laugh at him and call him a silly.

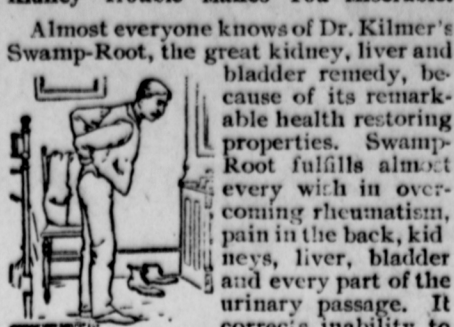

There was much in her wilful conduct that caused him to wince in the heart of him. He was appalled by the thought of her shoulder to shoulder with the drunken rabble of traders and beach combers at Guvutu. It was bad enough for a clean, fastidious man, but for a young woman, a girl at that, it was awful. The theft of the Flibberty Gibbet was merely amusing, though the means by which the theft had been effected gave him hurt. Yet he found consolation in the fact that the task of making Oleson drunk had been turned over to the three scoundrels. And next and swiftly came the vision of her, alone with those same three scoundrels, on the Emily, sailing out to sea from Guvutu in the twilight with darkness coming on. Then came visions of Adamu Adam and Noa Noa and all her brawny Tahitian following and his anxiety faded away, being replaced by irritation that she should have been capable of such wildness of conduct. And the irritation was still on him as he got up and went inside to stare at the hook on the wall and to wish that her Stetson hat and revolver belt were hanging from it.

Several quiet weeks slipped by.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fails almost every with in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N.Y., on every bottle.

But Ogu was a bushman, lacking knowledge of the almost universal beche de mer English, and half a dozen of his fellows wrangled to explain.

"There are only two or three more," Joan said to Sheldon, "and then we're done. But you haven't told me that you are not angry."

Sheldon looked into her clear eyes as she favored him with a direct, untroubled gaze that threatened, he knew from experience, to turn teasingly defiant on an instant's notice. And as he looked at her, it came to him that he had never half anticipated the gladness her return would bring to him.

"I was angry," he said deliberately. "I am still angry, very angry," he noted the glint of defiance in her eyes and thrilled—"but I forgive, and I now forgive all over again. Though I still insist—"

"That I should have a guardian," she interrupted. "But that day will never come. Thank goodness, I'm of legal age and able to transact business in my own right. And, speaking of business, how do you like my forceful American methods?"

"Mr. Raff, from what I hear, doesn't take kindly to them," he temporized, "and you've certainly set the dry bones rattling for many a day. But what I want to know is, if other American women are as successful in business ventures?"

"Luck! most all luck," she disclaimed modestly, though her eyes lighted with sudden pleasure, and he knew her boy's vanity had been touched by his tribute of tempered praise.

"Luck be bowed!" broke out the long mate, Sparrowhawk, his face shining with admiration. "It was hard work, that's what it was. We earned our pay. She worked us till we dropped, and we were down with fever half the time. So was she, for that matter, only she wouldn't stay down. My word, she's a slave driver. An' the Lord lumme, the way she made love to old Kina-Kina!"

"He was older than Telepassé and dirtier," she assured Sheldon, "and I am sure much weaker. Now I must run and wash up. Did the Sydney orders arrive?"

"Yours are in your quarters," Sheldon said. "Hurry, for breakfast is waiting. Let me have your hat and belt. Do, please, allow me. There's only one hook for them, and I know where it is."

She gave him a quick scrutiny that was almost womanlike, then sighed with relief as she unbuckled the heavy belt and passed it to him.

"I doubt if I ever want to see another revolver," she complained. "That one has worn a hole in me, I'm sure. I never dreamed I could get so weary of one."

Sheldon watched her to the foot of the steps, where she turned and called back:

"My, I can't tell you how good it is to be home again!"

"And Burnett said, 'Well, I'll be d—! I beg your pardon, Miss Lackland, but you have wantonly broken the recruiting laws and you know it,'" Captain Munster narrated as they sat over their whisky, waiting for Joan to come back. "And says she to him, 'Mr. Burnett, can you show me any law against taking the passengers off a vessel that's on a reef?' What could Burnett do? He passed the whole hundred and fifty, though the Emily was only licensed for forty and the Flibberty Gibbet for thirty-five."

"But I don't understand," Sheldon said.

"This is the way she worked it. When the Martha was floated we had to beach her right away at the head of the bay, and whilst repairs were going on, a new rudder being made, sails bent, gear recovered from the niggers, and so forth, Miss Lackland borrows Sparrowhawk to run the Flibberty along with Curtis, lends me Brahm's to take Sparrowhawk's place and starts both craft off recruiting. My word, the niggers came easy. It was virgin ground. Since the Scottish Chiefs no recruiter had ever even tried to work the coast. When we filled up we came back to see how the Martha was progressing."

"And thinking we was going home with our recruits," Sparrowhawk slipped in. "Lord lumme, that Miss Lackland ain't never satisfied. 'I'll take 'em on the Martha,' says she, 'and you can go back and fill up again.'"

"But I told her it couldn't be done," Munster went on. "I told her the Martha hadn't a license for recruiting. 'Oh,' she said, 'it can't be done, eh?' and she stood and thought a few minutes."

"And I'd seen her think before," cried Sparrowhawk, "and I knew at wunst that the thing was as good as done."

Munster lighted his cigarette and resumed:

"You see that spit," she says to me, 'with the little ripple breaking around it? There's a current sets right across it and on it, and it will set you nicely aground. Then I'll rescue your recruits and sail away—simple, ain't it?' says she. Munster continued. "You hang up one tide," says she; 'the next is the big high water. Then you hedge off and go after more recruits. There's no law against recruiting when you're empty. 'But there is against starving 'em,' I said. 'You know there ain't any kal-kai to speak of aboard of us and there ain't a crumb on the Martha.'"

"I DOUBT IF I EVER WANT TO SEE ANOTHER REVOLVER."

"Don't let the kal-kai worry you, Captain Munster," says she. "If I can find grub for eighty-four mouths on the Martha, the two of you can do as much by your two vessels. Now go ahead and get aground before a steady breeze comes up and spoils the maneuver. I'll send my boats the moment you strike."

"And we went and did it," Sparrowhawk said solemnly and then emitted a series of chuckling noises. "Miss Lackland transferred the recruits, and the trick was done."

The Bones of Our Ancient People

By Henry C. Jolly Sr.

I wrote a partial description which was published in 1878 in relation to a burial place of an ancient people which I have opened and examined where were found their remains which were laid away with care and neatness to await the resurrection of their bodies.

In one of these discovered and examined in 1878 was a large cavity under a cliff of rock which was about eighteen by twenty feet. From the roofing to the bottom was fourteen feet. This place was almost filled with bodies of a race of people of whose habits, color or what time they inhabited this portion of our continent history tells but little. The Indians in their traditions (unwritten history) explain that those had passed away before their ancestors came and the mounds which represent animals and reptiles were supposed to be used in worship and others for defense. These curious specimens of an ancient people seemed by the size of many large trees growing upon them and other evidence to have been here many years before the discovery of America. These were undoubtedly the race of people which made tools out of flint, stone axes and many other utensils which we find scattered over the country.

In one cavern, Prof. N. L. Shaler, state geologist at that time, and I found where they had manufactured arrow heads and flint daggers, their weapons of offense and defense, many perfect in construction of which I have many yet in my possession, and the spalls of flint were scattered thickly about. In the room first mentioned discovered in 1878 I found, after taking out several bodies, a stone about the size of a barrel. It was in the center of the cavern I did not discover how deep in the ground it was placed. It was concave on top about three inches deep and would hold one gallon to the level surface. This stone was not a masterpiece of workmanship, but was worked on to some extent with harder stone. The bottom of this burial place had been prepared before it was used by scattering rocks about the size of small apples thickly over it, they looked as if lately broken. When a corpse was to be prepared for burial a fire was lighted, as there were evidences of this on the upright stone in the center. The body was laid across the fire face downward and burned until the bowels were burned out, as every one I took out was burned from the short ribs to the upper end of the thigh and that portion of the spinal column opposite the bowels was almost a cinder. They were laid away, their feet toward the altar, as we will call the stone used to burn them on, and their faces turned upward with a thin stone under their head. These stones bore no marks of workmanship. They were about one and a half inches and of a different strata from any rock found in that locality. What the bodies were covered with, I could not conjecture, as there were but ashes and charcoal and some trinkets used for ornaments probably, for the holes drilled through them seemed to be worn very much, they were made from flint, stone, coal, musselshells and a kind of earthenware, all of which seemed to be broken and were mixed in with the bodies.

The skulls were very smooth showing no seams which proves them to be very old. Also their teeth though worn almost even with their jaws there were no decayed teeth and none missing. Their hair which seemed coarse and black was tied close to the head in the middle and at the end with what appeared to be deer sinews. Their hair was the same length about one foot and the roll about one inch in diameter and when first taken from the excavation could be handled, but when exposed to the air would crumble to fine black dust. The ornaments of shells would also dissolve in exposure to air.

I carefully noted the many bones of the arms, legs, hips and ribs and I never found any broken and healed which would have made them larger and rough. They certainly were a quiet, orderly people to have had no broken or fractured bones. On examination the bones were found to be much heavier, rougher and stronger than those of the Ethiopian race. They were but little taller than the American people with but one exception. Prof. N. L. Shaler measured this skeleton and gave as his opinion that he was nine feet tall and from the cavity of the attached muscles that he would have weighed eight or nine hundred pounds. There was one skull which had a curious bone on the bones which compose the nose. It was a protuberance which ran out and upward about four and a half inches, it was not a horn for it was of the same composition as any other bone and I conjectured it was covered with flesh and skin as it was an attachment of the skull.

The shape of the skull and cavity for the brain led me to believe they were an intelligent race. Prof. Shaler stated they were not flesh eaters but did eat shellfish, crawfish, periwinkles and fish without heating them. He proves this by their teeth.

In one burial place I took out thirty four skeletons complete and in another three. All buried in the same manner, except one, which was buried in a sitting position.

There were six or seven state geologists examined these bones. I put the queries to them of whom were they descendants and what became of the race. Also at what period of the world's history were they placed here. Three agreed they were a portion of the ten lost tribes of Israel and came to America by crossing Behring Strait on ice, thence to the Great Lakes and we trace them through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and part of Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and into Texas, and are living in Mexico and Central America, known as the Aztecs and Toltecs. How long they have been buried here cannot be satisfactorily answered. Several geologists placed it at 2,000 years ago.

There's nothing so good for sore throat as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.
